Welcome to the 2025 Louisiana Music Educators Association Conference in one of the most musical cities in the world, New Orleans! I can hardly believe that the moment we've all been waiting for has finally arrived! The excitement is palpable, and we are thrilled to have you here with us.

Our LMEA conference planning team has poured their hearts and souls into creating an event that is bigger and better than we could have imagined. Get ready for a weekend filled with incredible workshops and performances designed to inspire you and elevate your teaching. This is not just another conference; it's a celebration of our shared passion for music education!

Your experience here is of utmost importance to us, and we want you to leave feeling empowered with new knowledge and excitement about teaching the amazing music students we have in Louisiana. You are invaluable, and we are committed to showing you that we are here to support YOU every step of the way. Our goal is clear: to become the organization you've always envisioned for LMEA.

This weekend, seize this opportunity to invest in yourself! Spend time with your colleagues, share ideas, and embrace new perspectives that will allow you to bring even more creativity into your classrooms. Remember, LMEA aims to be your voice for music education in Louisiana—advocating and building a strong relationship with the Louisiana Department of Education to enhance music education in all schools.

Each of you plays a crucial role in this journey toward excellence in music education. We hope this weekend inspires you not only as educators but also as advocates within your school districts about providing a well-rounded education that includes music for every student throughout our great state.

In 2018, Ms. Woo was the first international guest conductor for the middle school State Honours Ensemble Program at the Queensland Conservatorium (Griffith University) in Brisbane, Australia where she recently returned to guest conduct the national high school honor band with the 2023 Australian Honours Ensemble Program.

American guitarist Dr. Chad Ibison has captivated audiences across North America and abroad through his imaginative musical interpretations and charismatic stage presence. Hailed through critical acclaim, Chad has been described as “very versatile in terms of contrast and range of expression” (Classical Guitar Canada) with “masterful phrasing combined with technical precision” (ClassicalGuitar.org). Composer Gregory Sullivan Isaacs, in the Fort Worth Star Telegram, describes Ibison’s impact as a performer; “Chad gave an incendiary performance. His approach was, at the same time, aggressive and intimate. He melded with the instrument, and the result was brash, expressive and technically secure.”

Along with his critical acclaim, Ibison has accumulated ten first place awards among his eighteen top prize wins at international guitar competitions including The Guitar Foundation of America, JoAnn Falletta Concerto Competition and Boston’s New England Conservatory Guitarfest. He participates regularly at guitar festivals as a performer, teacher and judge. Chad resides in Austin and is currently the Assistant Professor at Austin Community College and maintains a private studio in Hyde Park.
